Author Says German Constitution Does Not Clash With Treaty.

SUCH UNION WOULD BE
BURDEN TO GERMAN NATION

Asserts, However, That It Would Be Important In Future.

Berlin, Thursday, Sept. 11.—Dr. Hugo Preuss, who drafted the new German constitution recently promulgated at Weimar, in a statement today to the Associated Press, asserted that the demand made by the peace conference that Germany must amend the constitution so as to prevent Austrian representatives in German parliamentary affairs.

"I must emphasize first," he said, "that this is not a question of law. Legally it is clear and simple. The way in which our opponents brought up the matter shows they are following entirely definite purposes for the clearing up of doubtful legal questions."

"In article 178 of the German constitution, the terms of the treaty of peace signed at Versailles will not be affected by the constitution. This excludes any practical collision between the peace terms and the constitution, for if there should be any provision of the constitution in contradiction of the peace terms, the latter would be valid legally, without any choice for the constitution to take precedence over the treaty."

"Article 61, paragraph 2 (providing for the dismissal of Austrian members of the Reichstag) does not stand as a formal negation of the peace terms, this fact being recognized by the signing of the terms by the allied and associated governments. In the German counter proposals to the original peace terms, the German government explained, in discussing this point that Germany did not desire to violate the Austrian frontier but that if Austria wanted to bring a state of unity with Germany, the latter would not object. The allied and associated governments have recognized in their answer that Germany did not want forcibly to violate the Austrian frontier. Thus the peace treaty was signed. Article 61 does not forcibly invade the Austrian frontier. It leaves every right left to the free initiative to Austria in the national principles and national self-determination."

"Further if the entire raised serious objections to the peace terms, the allied and associated governments would be obliged to report a quiet understanding with Germany. Instead of that the entire chose a most sudden and brusque manner toward us and offered terms for which we had no trace of legality, the purpose being to compel Germany to alter her constitution as to immaterial points. I estimate too highly the legal insight of our opponents to believe they do not recognize how legally untenable is their position."

"Their political purpose however has been attained and the whole world has been shown that Germany must submit to the peace terms. The peace treaty is the opinion widely current among Germans that the statesmen of the entente and America are filled with anger and hate and have allowed themselves to be drawn into a planless and purposeless policy. This policy however, can have but one thought and plan—to make it impossible to consolidate a democratic republic in Germany. The forcible prevention of a union of Austria and Germany is the aim of the policy."

"Materially the union of Austria to Germany would mean a severe burden to Germany. Tremendous sacrifices would be necessary and therefore there are many people in Germany who view the plan with hesitation. It would however be of great value and would be of wonderful importance to the young German democracy as it would bring about a unity which Bismarck's statecraft and Prussian weapons failed to accomplish."

D'ANNUNZIO LEADS DISORDERS IN FIUME

Rome, Friday, Sept. 12.—Gabriele D'Annunzio, the Italian poet-aviator, arrived in Fiume from London this afternoon with detachments of grenadiers and provided with machine guns and armored automobiles, according to reports reaching this city tonight. The movement was made in violation of orders from the government. No disorders were reported up till late tonight. Government officers have been instructed to investigate recent demonstrations at Fiume and determine who was responsible for them.

Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio, who distinguished himself as an Italian aviator during the war, has been one of the most ardent advocates of Italian claims to Tyrol on the eastern shores of the Adriatic. During the controversy over the disposition of Fiume at the peace table during May and afterward the resignation of Premier Orlando, appeals were made to the Italian people by Captain D'Annunzio, who urged an Italian fight for her just claims. Reports reaching London on Thursday stated that serious rioting between Italians and Jugo Slav soldiers had taken place at Fiume and that allied units had been compelled to intervene.

CARDINAL MERCIER OF BELGIUM, ONE OF HEROIC FIGURES OF WAR, REACHES U. S.

Cardinal Mercier, at left, and Archbishop Hayes of New York, watching parade of First division in New York a few hours after the cardinal's arrival in U. S.

Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, one of the outstanding figures on the world war, has arrived in the U. S. to personally thank America for the aid given Belgium. When the Germans entered Belgium and pillaged and ransacked that country the aged primate called upon them to stop. "If you have no regard for the laws of civilization have regard for the laws of God," was his word to them. His first public appearance in the U. S. was as one of the many thousands of spectators who paid tribute to General Pershing and his gallant First division in the parade in New York the day the cardinal arrived.

PERSHING MAKES
REPORT ON TASK

Chief of Yanks in France Officially Informs Government That His Job "Over There" Is Finished

Washington, Sept. 13.—General John J. Pershing today reestablished headquarters of the American expeditionary forces at the war department, where more than two years ago he took up a task the results of which surrounded the world, to him brought fame and to his country undying glory. General Pershing was welcomed upon his return to the national capitol late yesterday with a fitting demonstration of gratitude to the man who led the American armies to victory in France. In the headquarters where they began, General Pershing and his staff will wind up the affairs of the greatest force for overseas operations ever organized in the history of the world.

Shouts from the crowds which packed the concourse of union station welcomed General Pershing when he stepped from his special train to be met by Secretary Baker and General March, chief of staff.

Escorted by cavalry General Pershing rode to his hotel with Vice President Marshall in the latter's automobile. Street crowds lined and cheered all along the line of the procession and all moved up Pennsylvania Avenue and at the hotel the streets were blocked with people.

Appropriate to the occasion of General Pershing's return to Washington a resolution proposing the gift of a sword to the ranking officer of the American expeditionary forces has been given right away for consideration in the house today. The resolution which thanks the thanks of the American people and the congress to General Pershing and the men of the American expeditionary forces, would appropriate $10,000 for purchase of the sword.

Wednesday in which General Pershing will lead the First Division and receive the formal greeting of the capitol.

Hours before General Pershing's call on Secretary Baker there was a mobilization of spectators in front of Mr. Baker's office.

After his conference with Mr. Baker, General Pershing's program was to go to his offices here in the old land office building to reestablish headquarters in Washington for the American expeditionary forces. This was General Pershing's 59th birthday. He was born on September 13, 1860.

General Pershing will dine tonight with his father-in-law, Senator Warren of Wyoming. It will be a private dinner with only a few guests.

Besides Columbus, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Toledo also will be visited by the cardinal.

The date of the visit here has not been determined, but it will be some time subsequent to September 19, when the cardinal is expected to be in New York to attend a banquet and reception, and later to dedicate the new convent of the Belgian sisterhood there.

WILSON KIDS WESTERN CROWD ABOUT BAND

On Board President's Special, Friday, Sept. 12.—When President Wilson's special train stopped for a few minutes at Pasco, Washington, shortly after 9 o'clock tonight, a crowd surrounded the train, and the President came out to shake hands and exchange greetings with them. After telling several stories, he wound up by making a short speech in which he said the war was "unfinished" until the United States had assumed responsibility for its pledges that future wars should be made impossible. When he asked how so large a crowd had gathered without having the band out, Mr. Wilson was told by one of the boys that "the band's work out."

Another boy wearing a faded bandman's uniform was thrust forward then and presented as "the sole member of Pasco's brass band. The President remarked that he did not look as though he had wind enough and then an old inhabitant confessed that "he had given the band $15 net to play tonight."

One of the President's stories which got a long laugh was about a man who played golf and always said "Assouan" when he missed the ball. When asked why, he replied that "Assouan" was the biggest dam in the world.

Thanking the crowd for coming out to see him, Mr. Wilson said in a brief speech that he regarded it as another event that the people wanted the peace treaty ratified.

ENGLISH LABOR SHOWS
OPPOSITION TO GOVT.

London, Sept. 13.—The results of the election of Widnes, Lancashire, in which Arthur Henderson, the labor leader was elected to the house of commons is considered a severe blow to the coalition government and has revived speculation as to the imminence of another general election. The virtually unanimous votes of the trades union congress at Glasgow for the nationalization of mines and today's vote on the subject of withdrawing British troops from Russia are regarded as evidences of a very determined attitude on the part of labor against the government.

WILSON ASSERTS

Ratification of Treaty Is Necessary Before Task Is Completed.

AMERICA'S POLICY DECLARED IN SPEECH TO CONGRESS

Says He Promised Liberty To World In Asking War On Huns.

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 13.—Reading to a Tacoma audience today a part of his address to congress asking a declaration of war with Germany, President Wilson declared the purpose there outlined had not yet been fulfilled and would not be until the treaty was ratified.

Pointing out that he had a schedule in that address for a complete freedom from autocracy and guarantees for liberty everywhere, he said that was the program which had been adopted without respect to party and which is now was proposed in some quarters to abandon. When he asked whether the people wanted it abandoned there were shouts of "no, no" and cheers from the crowd. It was the first of two addresses to be delivered by the president in Washington during the day, a night meeting being scheduled at Seattle.

Before he went to the armory, the president was driven to the Stadium, where a cheering mass of humanity, including many school children, welcomed him. With a seating capacity of 30,000 the stadium was packed.

In a brief address at the Stadium, Mr. Wilson said he was grateful that the children had come out to see because he felt the decisions being made now affected the children more than those of the present generation.

He gave the cost of the war on both sides at $188,000,000,000 and the cost to the United States at $1,000,000,000 an hour for two years. In addition he continued there were 7,500,000 battle deaths. Those were "terrible facts," he declared, and he had come out to the people to see whether they had forgotten them. "The country has not forgotten," he added, "and I will never permit any man who stands in the way of the fulfillment of our pledges to forget the sorrowful day when he made the attempt."

STATE ORDERS
'PHONES PUT IN WITHOUT COST

Service Connection Charge Authorized By Burleson Is Held To Be "Unjust and Unreasonable."

Columbus, Sept. 13.—The Ohio Public Utilities Commission in a decision handed down today ordered telephone companies operating in Ohio to discontinue after October 1, the $3.50 service connection charge authorized by Postmaster General Burleson while the wires were under federal control.

The commission holds that the exacting of a charge of $3.50 or any amount for an "unfinished" line is "unjust and unreasonable" for the reason that such installation adds the capital account of the company while transfers from one location to another charged to operating expense and are expenses which are created by the subscriber. "The commission holds that the companies may require a prepayment for three months service in advance in order to protect itself against subscribers who refuse to pay for the service for only a few days or a few weeks and it 'sees no reason' why a higher short term rate may not be made to cover additional cost for short term subscribers."

The order also modifies other charges instituted under the Burleson regime. The Burleson schedules under which the companies are now operating allows a charge of $1.50 for transfer of a line from one office to another on premises where the service has already been installed. The Ohio commission allows $1 for this service. It allows a charge of $1 for moving an instrument from one location to another in the same room or to another in the same floor, and $2 for moving an instrument from one floor of a building to another.

VULTURE ON SHIP'S SPARS PREDICTS
FATE OF SHIP'S CREW LOST IN STORM.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 13.—Many hours before the storm which sank the Ward Liner Corydon on the Bahamas channel Tuesday morning with a loss of 27 lives, a vulture followed the ship and perched on her spars, while a panic stricken crew believing in the superstitions of the sea were convinced that they were doomed.

Such is the story brought here by eight of the crew who were 53 hours adrift on an upturned boat, battered and bruised and without food or water.

All day Sunday as the ship pursued her way in calm seas and light winds the great bird hovered overhead. Sunday night and Monday the Corydon staggered through the smashing seas. Monday night every member of the crew was engaged in a desperate battle for life.

When the vessel went under the Americans in the crew kept their heads and saved the lives of some others of the 36.

SAYS SOCIALISTS SENT
PEACE OFFER IN 1914

Berlin, Friday, Sept. 12.—Philipp Scheidemann, former German premier, declared recently at Cassel where he was heckled after an address, that Dr. Theobald Von Bethmann Hollweg, former imperial chancellor asked him to work with English and French Socialists in behalf of peace in November 1914 according to the Vorwaerts. Herr Scheidemann is quoted as follows: "In November 1914 after four months of war, Hugo Haase and I visited Dr. Von Bethmann Hollweg to notify him that the Social Democratic faction was planning a peace demonstration in the Reichstag."

Before the whole world and full of consciousness of the enormous responsibility I have now for the first time make public what the chancellor told Herr Haase and myself on that occasion. After we had informed him of the contemplated action in the Reichstag Dr. Bethmann Hollweg said: 'Gentlemen, I earnestly request you not to undertake this step publicly at this time. You may rest assured such a demonstration would only strengthen the war determination of our forces, for according to all reliable reports an impression already is prevailing abroad that Germany is at the end of her resources. If it is possible for you to work with English and French Socialists in the interest of peace do so.' Herr Scheidemann added that the governing board of the party 'labored ceaselessly to get into touch with the Socialists of hostile countries but all attempts failed because of the negative attitude of the English and French members of the party.'

DEALERS BUY UP

Chicago Bureau Learns That Labels Are Removed and Labels Sold At Big Profit.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Evidence that foods are being stored in furniture storage warehouses and that wholesale grocers bought canned goods from the government at varying prices and sold them at a good profit was brought out today at an inquiry conducted by the city food bureau. One wholesale salesman said the profits were 33 1/2 percent. Another admitted changing the labels and selling the government canned goods as his own brand.

One storage house man admitted that foods were being stored in the furniture warehouses. Another made a denial but the chairman of the bureau replied to him that he had evidence that thousands of dollars worth of food were stored in his warehouse and that Marks and company alone had 50,000 cases there.

A wholesaler who said much food is being stored, said that shipments to Europe were leaving little surplus in the United States. His firm bought 28,794 cases of string beans from a government warehouse here at 8 1/3 cents a can or $1 a case of 12 cans and sold them to retailers at $1.35.

One wholesaler bought canned beans from the government at nine cents a can and sold the at $1.25 a case. Still another bought beans at 8 1/4 cents a can and sold at $1.25 a case and admitted he had removed the labels and substituted his own.

Piez, former head of the shipping board as chairman.

"Manufacturers are awakening to the fact that they have not to present their own views collectively at Washington if they expect to get what is their due in the way of exchange," said Mr. Piez in stating that the purpose of such a national union of employers would be "to look out for the interests of business."

RETURN OF COPS WILL DEPEND ON LEGAL OPINION

Attorney General of Massachusetts To Decide Status of Police.

MEN VOTE TO RETURN TO DUTY PENDING CONFERENCE

General Strike Still a Possibility and Troops Remain On Duty.

Boston, Sept. 13.—Police Commissioner Curtis today announced that the posts deserted by striking policemen were vacant and that he would proceed to fill them.

A woman and a man were shot at Boylston and Tremont streets this morning during an attempt of the state guards to make looters move on.

The man was killed and the woman wounded in the knee. The man had engaged in an argument with one of the state guards who was trying to clear the street entrance to the subway. The state guard with fixed bayonets dispersed the quickly gathering crowds.

Boston, Sept. 13.—Attorney General Bruce Wyman is preparing for Police Commissioner Curtis an opinion on the legal points involved in the strike of policemen here and it is expected to determine whether the strikers would be permitted to return to the city's employ.

On this opinion it is expected, will rest the course of the state regarding the request of the strikers that they be reinstated while continuing their affiliation with the American Federation of Labor pending the outcome of the labor conference at Washington, October 6, when all matters affecting the relations of workers and employers will be considered.

Briefly the point at issue is whether a member of the Boston police department is an employee in the sense that his affiliation with other employees may not be prohibited by laws of the department of an officer of the state, amenable to the laws and rules governing public officials.

Yesterday Governor Coolidge characterized as deserters and desertion the strikers' action.

In response to a telegram from Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor the policemen's union voted last night in favor of resigning their posts and providing the authorities would agree to the suggestion of Mr. Gompers that the matter of their union affiliation be held in abeyance until after a conference on the labor situation called by President Wilson for October 6.

The resolution as adopted by the union also called for the reinstatement of 19 policemen, who were suspended for violation of the department rule forbidding membership in outside organizations and whose suspension was the immediate cause of these walkouts last Tuesday afternoon.

Governor Coolidge had left the state house when word came of the action of the union, but it was said that a conference had been arranged with labor leaders today and that the situation might be considered at that time.

In a statement yesterday the governor said that he considered the walkouts desertion of duty rather than a strike and that he could think of "no conditions" under which themen should be taken back. He said, however, that the matter rested with Police Commissioner Curtis.

A general strike in support of the police was still a possibility today as several unions affiliated with the central labor union met last night to vote on the question of a general strike. In most cases action was postponed to await the outcome of the suggestion of President Gompers. The telephone operators put the question over until next Tuesday.

State guards were on duty to control the streets in conjunction with volunteer policemen and loyal members of the regular force. There was no repetition during the night of the rioting and looting which marked the first 48 hours of the strike and only a few arrests were made for minor offenses.

ITALIANS DECLARE
KAISER WILL ESCAPE

Rome, Thursday, Sept. 11.—Luigi Luzzatti former premier, presented today to the chamber of deputies a report to the parliamentary commission entrusted with the examination of the peace treaty with Germany.

Concerning the trial of former Emperor William the report said:

"Crimes attributed to the former emperor were not contemplated in any penal code. Nobody can be called to answer and be punished for acts which when committed did not constitute a crime contemplated by law. The society of nations may establish for the future the criminal status of offenders against international morals or disregard of treaties, but Count Hohenzoelleren's accusers cannot appoint judges, and it is impossible to ask Holland to extradite a man who committed his crimes not within the purview of present treaties. The former emperor must be placed in a condition where he can do no further harm, but the eternal ideals which guard the public and private life, must be saved."

WANT LAY DELEGATES NAMED BY MEMBERS

Columbus, Sept. 12.—Lay delegates of the Ohio M. L. conference will go to the general conference at Des Moines next May instead of to work for an amendment to the church constitution whereby official boards will be nominated and elected by the general membership of local churches.

Only one vote was cast for such a resolution at the conference of lay members yesterday at Morgan Memorial church. At present members of official boards are nominated by pastors and confirmed by the quarterly conferences, composed in turn, of the official boards of the preceding year and church department heads.

All with only one vote against it, the laymen adopted a resolution which will allow the growing tendency toward the use of methods to elect candidates for delegates "protesting to methods used in political campaigns."

Candidates for lay delegates this year, it is said, were busy at work in soliciting support. They circulated campaign cards, got supporters to wear ribbons bearing their names, and their friends were active in soliciting votes.

There was no violence, however, this activity in behalf of the various candidates hurt the cause of any. The following were elected:

John P. Phillips, Chillicothe; John T. Breese, Portsmouth; H. H. Carmichael, Westerville; J. M. Lee, Delaware; John S. Graham, Grinnell; and J. W. Deffenbaugh, Lancaster.

Alternates elected were: David W. Jones, Columbus; Wesley Montgomery, Mt. Vernon; and E. V. Don Banger, Columbus. Other nominees for delegates were: W. F. H. Wilson, Columbus; A. T. Williams, Marietta; and W. C. B. Shear, Lorain.

Tellers refused to accept the vote at first because 151 ballots were cast while so late as the credentials committee knew only 115 were qualified to vote. There were whisperings of fear that the ballot box might have been stuffed, although it was asserted by many that a "good method" would do no such thing.

CLEM'S TENNESSEE GIRL WEDS JOHNNY'S PAL

Columbus, Sept. 12.—It reads like a fable that a girl from Tennessee wedded a boy from Ohio. But it's true, according to George W. Hulet, Knoxville, Tenn. civil war veteran.

Yesterday Comrade Hulet advanced with a girl that still had a semblance of staidness, on none other than General Clem—"Little Johnny."

"Member the little girl who used to give you a drink of water down by the old well?" he asked, "when you were just a little drummer boy?"

"Yes—and her name was Flossie," General Clem answered. "Pretty little Flossie! The boys used to give me because I talked to her."

"Well, Johnny, here's once a private to you to it," answered Comrade Hulet proudly. "I'm Flossie's husband!"

Back in '63 Comrade Hulet was 19 and a boy in blue. Wounded, she nursed him back to health. When he left he promised to come back to the little 12-year-old girl.

After many years in which he was both married and left a widower, Comrade Hulet went back, found Flossie then a widow of Knoxville, and married her.

That happened 20 years ago and they have lived happily since.

Comrade Hulet, 76 years old, fought with the One Hundred and old home, Kent. He is a survivor of the "Sultana" disaster and spent four months in the Andersonville prison. He remembers the time he marched barefoot for four days and four nights in succession in December.

George H. Young, Evans, Colo., was another Sultana survivor here for the reunion. He wore the cap he won in 1862.

DENISON GRID OUTLOOK GOOD AS TERM OPENS

Granville, Sept. 12.—With school opening here Wednesday and football season drawing near, the prospects of Denison's "Big Red" in local circles this year are growing better each day.

Many old timers will be in "togs" this fall to help Coach Livingston along. In Meredith, Kull and Kidder he will have three all-Ohio tackles to form the nucleus of his line. In Thompson, Spencer, Swanson, Wildman and Reddig he will have five veterans who can handle their positions with any of them.

In his back field in Denison's line, Rouleau has two all-Ohio men with Hollings (Gucker), Stone, Webber and several others fighting for positions. With Owen Emmons and Wood in school the ends are safe as these men can handle rushes and tackle with the best of them. Denison will lay one game in Newark on Thanksgiving day her opponent being Kenyon.

Columbus, Sept. 12.—The King purse will be the feature event of the first day of the two weeks Grand Circuit meeting which will open at the Columbus driving park Monday afternoon. In this race the Tennessee bred mare Grace Direct that defeated the free for all band at Springfield, Ill., where she came within a fraction of entering the two minute list, will again meet Frank Dewey and Direct C. Burnett, both of which finished in front of her earlier in the season, as well as Omond with which Valentine has been touring the Great Western circuit, and Aed Bearer, who won a race at Indianapolis last week after being in the repair shop for five or six weeks.

The $5,000 M. & M. for the 2:14 trotters is carded for Tuesday. Cox has both Mignola and McGregor named in it and will start the best one that day, while Murphy will be out with Fenestra, if she has recovered from her lameness, and Valentine will no doubt air Peter Coley, who made a very favorable showing while racing in the corn belt.

Dodge's clever filly Hollywood Naomi is also eligible, as well as The Acme, its new owner feels disposed to sample him again in that kind of company.

There will be a genuine 2:14 Hartman purse for the 2:14 pacers. It will result in an encounter between Goldie Todd, either Direct C. Burnett or Sanardo from the Murphy outfit, Gladys B. and Gratian Red.

The renewal of the Capitol City purse for 2:06 trotters will be a repetition of the splendid contest which was seen at the August meeting, when Wilkes Brewer defeated Royal Mack and The Toddler, after the latter trotted in 2:04 1-4. As at other points Heir Bep, who is getting good again, and Prince Loree, a winner at Hartford, are also in the field.

The above are only four of the 22 races listed for the first week of the meeting, the other feature events being the three divisions of the Review Futurity, for the two and three year old trotters and the three year old pacers, in free for all trot, and also a free for all pace in which the horses that have been making the rounds of the western tracks will again meet those who followed the line of the Grand Circuit over the eastern loop.

DISREGARD OF MARRIAGE LAWS LECTURE SUBJECT

Three lectures on timely subjects will be delivered by J. Aspinall McCuag of New York in Newark Sunday. An afternoon mass meeting of men to be held at 2:30 o'clock, in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian association, will feature the opening of the Y. M. C. A. season of Sunday afternoon events. Mr. McCuag will discuss the matter of "War Babies, Neglected Children and Changes in Marriage Standards the Result of the war." The lecture will be a discussion of the widespread inclination, both in Europe and America, toward the breaking down of traditional marriage standards.

In a drastic article in this month's issue of the Pictorial Review, Wm.

J. ASPINALL MCCUAG.

Havelock Ellis, world-famous authority on sexual psychology, declares that marriage is an experiment and a risky one at that—and that his system that has worked successfully for 50 years does not seem feasible today under the revolutionary conditions resultant from the war.

"In view of the realities and injustices of the law," Mr. Ellis declares, "many couples nowadays dispense with legal marriage and form their own private contracts. That method has some times proved more favorable to the fidelity and permanency of the love than external compulsion. It assists the husband to render the love, and it is often the lover's need, than the husband that the modern woman needs."

It is this trend of thought, and disposition in the direction of license that Mr. McCuag will deal with Sunday afternoon.

At 10:45 o'clock Sunday morning Mr. McCuag will speak in the First Baptist church on "What One Man Can Do."

A general mass meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian church when the subject of discussion will be "Impending Revolution."

The National Christian League for the Promotion of Purity, of which Mr. McCuag is vice-president and educational head, is the oldest incorporated organization of its kind in America, having been organized in New York in 1887 and enlarged to nationwide influence in 1899, when a national charter was obtained. Among the founders of the organization are to be found the names of many of the leading reformers of the last century, including Bishop William C. Doane of Albany, Anthony Comstock of New York and Sylvanus Stall of Philadelphia.

MINERS ENDORSE PLUMB RAIL PLAN

Convention By Almost Unanimous Action Places O. K. On Proposed Nationalization of Railroads

Cleveland, O., Sept. 12.—The United Mine Workers convention today endorsed the Plumb plan for the nationalization of railroads, pledged the support of the miners organization to secure its enactment, and invited the railroad brotherhoods to join with them in an alliance for joint action to be later extended into an economic alliance with labor organizations on other basis of industries.

INSURANCE INSPECTORS TO SEE FIRE APPARATUS

Engineers from the Ohio insurance inspector's bureau have been asked to come to Newark by Mayor Altherton, to witness the display of fire apparatus on Tuesday.

Their visit is an effort on the part of the city to have the insurance rate lowered on account of the improved fire equipment. The inspector has promised to have his men attend the exhibition and to use their report in a re-rating.

The demonstration of the fire apparatus will be a feature of the open house arranged by the safety department to show the new and complete motor equipment of the Newark fire department.

The demonstration of the aerial ladder truck and the pumping engine will be given in South Fourth street, Monday afternoon.

A reception will be held at the fire headquarters to which Newark citizens have been invited. Officials from Cincinnati, Cleveland, Toledo, East Liverpool, Steubenville, Lancaster and Mansfield have sent favorable replies to the invitations to witness the demonstration.

Young women of the public service department, Misses Gore, Irwin, Dush and Frye will serve punch and wafers and Gamble's saxophone quartet and Frank Stear, vocalist, will furnish music.

FIND CAR HERE STOLEN IN KNOX CO. MAN HELD

While attending the county fair here Peter Perkins and sister of Mt. Vernon saw a machine in Second street which looked like the one stolen from their brother Harry Perkins at Mt. Vernon.

They notified the police and Captain Illiger and Officer Schweinhart took the machine and arrested William Beardslee, 12, and George Plumb, who gave their address as Galena. The car was driven to police headquarters by Vincent Holl and an examination showed that the white wire wheels had been painted with a dark paint.

The car was a Buick roadster with the tag number D-44, and when stolen had white wire wheels. Beardslee, who is a telegraph operator at Bangs station said he had bought the car and then told other stories. He admitted painting the wheels saying his father helped him. Plumb, when questioned seemed ignorant of the fact the car had been stolen.

Information obtained shows that Beardslee had made application to be transferred from Bangs to Big Walnut, which is farther from Mt. Vernon.

The sheriff from Knox county came to Newark and took the two men back with him. The car was stolen in Mt. Vernon on August 13.

ORDERS CHIEF TO RESIGN. Mason, Ga., Sept. 12.—Police Chief Bowden, who has been charged with sympathizing with rioting strikers in the cotton mills trouble here, was today given three hours to resign his office, by the city service commission.

How We Go At It

First we look into the battery to see if you put water in it.

Then we use the hydrometer which is the one reliable way of knowing the condition of its charge.

Then, if no special cause of trouble appears we put it on the line to see if it will take a charge.

But if there is plain indication of serious trouble we open the battery up and find out exactly what's what.

Don't trust your battery to amateurs or artists in guesswork, who claim they can tell inside condition by outside inspection.

Come here where you find adequate machines and apparatus to really inspect, charge and repair any battery.

Last Chance to See Mickey. Yesterday was a big day at the fair and yesterday was a big day for "Mickey" at the fair. The little girl with the smile who has the whole town talking was surely royally entertained at the fair and also helped to entertain the big throng. It seemed as though everybody was thinking of her for as she en-

ly at the wide-awake salesman. Even "Mickey" herself was compelled to laugh. A baker in front of one of the shows sang "Mickey" and piano in exhibit hall played "Mickey" and the kiddies everywhere whistled "Mickey" with the tiny souvenir whistles which "Mickey" threw to them. Truly it was a wonderful demonstration of how completely "Mickey" had captured the tered the gate at the fair ground—the land greeted her by playing "Mickey" and no sooner was she inside the gate than a merry-go-round organ began playing "Mickey" and near the grandstand an ice cream cone vendor yelled out "These are the kind that 'Mickey' eats and the big crowd laughed heart-hearts of the immense crowd. And at the gate she stood about 5:30 and waved them and bid them all good-bye and they all waved and returned the greeting with a few single exceptions. In the evening she appeared at the Auditorium theatre and met hundreds of folks who had come to see this most widely heralded photoplay which is drawing crowds each day and which is being endorsed by most all who see it. The last two performances will be given to-night at 7 and 9 p. m.

Mary Pickford

Manager Fenberg brings to the Auditorium for three days starting Monday, Mary Pickford in her second First National Picture, "The Hoodlum." You know what "Daddy Long Legs" was, now you will want to see "The Hoodlum". In this as Amy Burke, she has the best role of her career.

Amy Burke, the French-heeled cradle-child of the millionaire Alexander Guthrie, didn't have a care in the world, drove her jazz-model chummy roadster about the streets of New York, was swayed upon by four maids, tutored by a high-priced teacher whose doctrines went in Amy's right ear and out her left and was literally idolized by the heavy-moneyed Guthrie who some people said was of considerable influence on Wall Street.

In fact, Amy was so busy having a good time that she forgot except when saying her prayers after a hard night's jazz dancing that her mother was dead and that her father was a sociological writer (whatever that was) who wasn't home except once every five or six years.

So Amy continued to break several young New Yorker's hearts and was anticipating a trip to Europe where she, still in her teens, was planning to try her charms on some of the cute foreigners who wore mustaches which looked so attractive in the moving pictures. Ol man Guthrie has his 16 trunks all packed and ready to ship aboard the steamer when Amy's father comes home, broke as usual after one of his seasons of sociological lecturing. Amy hadn't seen her father for a number of years and after greeting him and finding out that his finances would hardly buy her a pair of house slippers she asked him:

"Daddy, why don't you write stories like they use in the moving pictures. The people don't care anything about the science of human society" (Amy had looked up the word, "sociological" in a somewhat unused copy of Webster's.)

"Tut-tut-tut, child," quoth the old man. "My work will live forever."

"Yes, but we won't," objected Amy. "But I don't care, I'm going to live with my father no matter where. Even if it's on the—East Side."

The crabbed millionaire Guthrie ranted and stormed up and down the hallways of his Riverside drive home until he had a pain in his right side. He wasn't able to influence Amy, however. She packed a small grip and went to live with her father in one of the roughest and most lawless parts of New York.

Creighton street (on the East Side) was somewhat different from anything Amy had ever known before. The people were very distasteful, but Amy, anxious not to jeopardize the social work of her father, decides to live among the poor and makes herself one of them.

Bert Lytell

Bert Lytell, popular in Newark with movie fans, comes to the Auditorium tomorrow in the Metro picture "One-Thing-at-a-Time O'Day." In this feature as Stradivarius O'Day, Lytell is seen in one of the better roles of his motion picture careers. The story:

Stradivarius O'Day, from all outward appearances, is not possessed of many brains. Inwardly, however, he is deep and determined. Fate one day guides his steps to a circus that has met with all sorts of bad luck. Wet weather has pursued them for weeks, no business has been done, and consequently no salaries have been paid. A state of gloom exists. This tale of woe is of no importance to Stradivarius—he is only a casual visitor—that is, until he sees

Marie, the winsome young bare-back rider of the show. With the sight of her a sudden and deep interest is aroused and he resolves to accomplish two things—a third and vital one is added as his adventures progress. His first resolve is to marry Marie, his second to become part owner of the show—but first, of course, he must get a job with the outfit.

Stradivarius has always had a motto in life to which he has strictly adhered. One-thing-at-a-time has been his slogan and with this view he has made a "special study" of anything he wished to achieve. This little idiosyncrasy has caused his friends to regard him with more or less scorn. His first "special study" therefore, is

THE WORST KIND OF ROAD.

A motorist who passed through Newark the other day on a long trip, remarked that the worst kind of road he had had to encounter, was the one that had formerly been hardened and improved but which had not been kept up. He had passed through many long stretches of highways of this type, which were one long succession of deep hollows. His car would toss and rock and plunge from one hole to another like a ship at sea.

These roads had apparently been treated at some previous time with gravel or other material. This was harder than the original earth over which the street was laid out. The very hardness of the material, when not cared for, made the road worse than if it had never been touched. It created the succession of deep holes, through which the car had to rock.

An unimproved road might be full of very deep sand or mud. But if it was all of uniform consistency, it was easier for the motor to pull through it than to pass over the road made out of hard substances that had been worn out into hollows.

The worst that can happen in the ordinary unimproved muddy or sandy road is that if the car gets stuck a farmer on another motor may have to be called to pull it out. In the hard road full of holes the car may not be stuck. But it is being very seriously injured by the terrific jolting to which it is subjected.

No community should consider improving its roads, unless it is also willing to spend the money to keep them up after they are improved. A little money spent each year in oiling, tarring, or merely in filling up the hollows that gather each season, will save an enormous amount of money for reconstruction. It will keep the road at a point where it will be an efficient route for transportation produce.

Licking county has a number of splendid roads. The road between Newark, Granville, Alexandria and Johnstown, the pike leading from Newark to Hanover and the road running from Newark to Zanesville via Jackson town or Linville are first class thoroughfares.

Can't the road from Newark to Utica be hurried to completion? Utica, the largest town in the county, except Newark, needs this road and so does Newark. It will be of great advantage to thousands of farmers as the route passes through some of the richest agricultural sections of the world. Let's urge the early completion of the Newark-Utica road.

Many of the people who complain about cost of living are the same ones who regard the garden as a piece of waste land on which they have to pay some one to mow the weeds regularly.

One Texas county has voted $6,500,000 for good roads, but it is usually considered better to get the money out of the federal government, as that doesn't cost anybody anything.

While ex-Kaiser Dill is not really wanted in this country, wood sawyers are so scarce that he could not doubt earn a living at good pay.

Tremendous execution reported by the 17 year locusts, also by the 17 year old girls at the summer resorts.

TWEEDLEDUM AND TWEEDLEDEE.

(Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

The great masses of Americans of all conditions will find little in either the action of the right wing "conservative" socialists or their seceding brethren the left wing, radical communists, to commend the fantastic schemes of either to the average level-headed citizen. While in their heated differences both groups themselves believe they are widely separate and moved by opposite principles, they are so much alike in their aims and human make-up as to be a matter of tweedledum and tweedledee. For instance, the "conservatives" cheered Emma Goldman's name for two minutes. If this be conservatism, no one will be more surprised than Emma Goldman herself. The "conservatives" are also for a general industrial strike to overthrow and overthrow the action of the courts in the Mooney, Debs and like cases. Of course, the communists, at a time when even Lenin and Trotsky have abandoned their paper theories as to the "socialization of industry," have adopted Bolshevism in its rawest state and have provided for a fairly proletarian kind of organization by reading out of their party anybody "who receives rent, interest or profit." This sends Rosa Pastor Stokes by the board and since she has repudiated Emma's crowd, she is thus suspended between two perplexities and is up in the air in a double sense.

As to the menace of the "reds" in numbers, there are cheering news that the "conservative" socialists have dwindled from 117,000 to 42,217, while at present the size of the radical communist combination in membership is largely a matter of shrill claim. But since neither group makes any bones of its radicalism, it will bear watching. For absurd as most of their preachments are, the very intonational character and irresponsibility of their outbursts has added a sinister undertone to the current unrest, and the country might as well realize that both these movements, however they may dub themselves, are revolutionary and anti-American to the core, as is proved by the utterances of those that have rallied to their respective banners. And this is not a time when violent anti-Americanism, whether of the purer or of the gutter, should go unnoticed.

Spirit of the Press

War Labor Board.
 The great usefulness of the War Labor Board, which came into being by Presidential proclamation and passes out of existence by failure of funds and the end of the war emergency, is shown in the fact that in 15 months' existence it adjusted more than 1,200 labor disputes. Since December 5 it has dealt only with disputes voluntarily submitted by both parties. The respect commanded by its record, by its absolutely fair representation of labor, capital, and the public, and by the personality of its heads, continued to bring a large number before it. Henceforth the country has no such general national agency for conciliation and arbitration, though the Department of Labor may hope for a judicial settlement when properly appealed to. The mediators of the Department were increasingly busy in the period before the creation of the War Labor Board. We must hope that with the disappearance of the War Labor Board the disposition of labor and capital to seek a peaceful solution of their quarrels will not diminish.—New York Evening Post.

Compulsory Naval Service.
 It is perhaps not generally known that there is a form of compulsory service in the United States Navy. There is no drafting of men into the navy, but there is compulsion in the length of the service of officers. Prior to 1913 all service was for a stipulated period, but since then there has been in force regulation which deprives all above the rank of seaman of the right to resign. They must serve during the pleasure of the President of the United States, which is to say, during the pleasure of Secretary Daniels, and his successor. The officer's military record is already bad and may become worse if the system is continued. Never before were there so many officers requesting to resign. The cause of this is mainly insufficient pay. Sailors which looked good a few years ago are anything but that today. Prices have risen, but pay has remained stationary. But what ever the cause of men wanting to resign, it is obvious that their inability to do so must produce very bad results.—San Francisco Bulletin.

How About It, Mr. Fenberg?
 It is reported by cable that English girls are becoming more beautiful through merely watching the beautiful women in the films. There may be something in it, and then again it may be an extra clever movie ad.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

And if it's American films they're watching, and we suppose it is, we're not surprised at it.

Present Rates Are Fair

While the Ohio Supreme Court is to be called upon to settle the technical question as to whether this company and the city of Newark have contractual relations involving telephone rates, it will not in any event be called upon to decide what is a fair rate for the telephone users of Newark to pay for the service they are accustomed to.

That is a business question and will be decided finally by the telephone users themselves.

Knowing the facts as to present costs there is a well defined opinion in Newark that the present rates are fair both to the company and the telephone users.

If you will notice, you may see most of your friends holding the reading matter further away or closer than that, sometimes by many inches. Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no loss of time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 506½ Marcellus Avenue, Manhattan, N. Y. Better cut out this notice and show it to any other who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

How Candy Relieves That "Tired Feeling"

When you wake up in the morning with that "tired feeling," it is caused, nine times out of ten, by impaired digestion, sluggish bowels and inactive liver.

Parlola Tablets—"The Doctor in Candy Form"—are delicious, palatable little tablets of peppermint flavor without the slightest taste of medicine. They are a mild, easy-to-eat, pleasant but thoroughly effective laxative and leave no harsh or weakening effects.

Parlola Tablets keep the bowels clear and the liver active; help purify the blood; drive away that "tired feeling" and make you feel like a new person. They are good for young and old alike. Children ask for them and grown-ups learn what real health is through their use.

He declared England had a blind population of 34,000, the great majority of them in dire distress because of prevailing living costs and the scarcity of employment for which they are suited.

Wife Asks Alimony.
Susie E. McLaughlin today filed a suit for alimony against Ralph J. McLaughlin in common pleas court. The petition states they were married February 24, 1918 and that they have one child Vivian Jane.

The plaintiff alleges the defendant has failed to provide for her and her child, that he carried on a correspondence with other women, and that he neglected her to such an extent she had to take the child and leave her home. She states he makes $19 a week, and asks permanent alimony, and the care and custody of the child.

Our Boys and Girls

If plans are laid out with care, and much of the dainty stitching is done at home, a baby's lavette, adequate and distinctive, may be provided at a really moderate cost. The first requirement is fine, soft materials, and the second is skillful hand needlework, for machine stitching on the garments for a tiny baby seems almost a sacrilege.

Really fine needlework is essential. The hemming should be exquisitely even, the pin tucking done with 150 cotton and the stitches almost invariably tiny. The gathers should be whipped to perfect evenness and the facings and casings, sent into minute openings.

For occasions when the baby is to be taken down stairs to be shown, there may be two small dresses made of sheer French muslin, with trimmings of real Valenciennes, which may be had in the quarter yard width.

These gala dresses should be made in like style and should be finished at the edge with a lace edged petticoat, also of French muslin, for wear between the sheer frock and the flannel skirt.

OHIO FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

(By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick, Director of Press)

It was a very great disappointment to Ohio club women when, on account of the epidemic of influenza, the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs was unable to hold its annual state convention at Coshocton last October, and so the state convention to be held at Cleveland, October 13 to 17, is being eagerly looked forward to by the club women everywhere in the state.

Mrs. James Neil Fleming, of Cleveland, who labored for months to build the Coshocton state convention program, has again built a wonderful program to be presented at the Cleveland gathering. As an architect and builder of programs Mrs. Fleming is said to have few equals in the entire United States. She has plenty of time—though none too much to arrange a thousand and one details for the Cleveland convention program and those who are in a position to know say it can not possibly be excelled in originality or in its wonder-making material.

It is officially announced that Mrs. Josiah Evans Cogles, of Los Angeles, California, will grace the state meeting with her attendance. Mrs. True Worthing White, of Arlington Heights, Massachusetts, General Federation literary chairman, and Mrs. William D. Steele, of Sedalia, Missouri, music chairman of the General Federation, will also be present together with a number of club celebrities. We know that the messages will be of a high order and well worth while.

Mrs. Woodally Chapman, who has charge of social hygiene work for the General Federation, will give "America's Problems" and Miss Grace Treat, of Cleveland, will talk on "The Social Unit."

A house party at Lakeland, the summer home of Mrs. Prentice E. Hood, president of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, brought together members of the state federation board this summer for the silver anniversary convention in Cleveland, and all of us know that there are many rare treats in store for all who will be the twenty-fifth annual convention we are reliably informed that there will be many happy surprises for all those who attend.

As the time is at hand for clubs to use up their work for the coming year, club women are awaiting opportunity to swing into line and march onto the fulfillment of the duties and responsibilities which the future demands of the womanhood of our country in the serious task of readjustment.

It is hoped that a large number of clubs are planning one or more open meetings for the coming season or renewed activity.

DAUGHTER OF LATE CHAS. W. FAIRBANKS WOULD BREAK WILL

Mrs. Adelaide Timmons.

Mrs. Adelaide Timmons, daughter of the late Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States, has filed suit in Chicago to break the will of her father. She makes serious charges against her two brothers, Frederick C. and Warren C. Fairbanks. In a statement issued at the time she filed the suit she says that they drafted the will, involving $8,000,000, when the father was so weak and blind he was unable to comprehend the effects of his acts. They deny the charge.

meeting along certain lines may write to the chairman of the department of the Ohio federation of which the subjects treat and she will be glad to assist in securing a splendid speaker. Reference to the federation "Year Book" will supply the addresses of these various chairmen.

Club presidents and secretaries throughout the state always should bear in mind that this column necessarily must depend on them to a considerable degree for any news value it may carry. Unless the director of press be informed about matters of more than local interest everywhere throughout the state—and every club has done something or plans to do something calculated to arouse interest outside its respective community—this column can not hope to be of that broad service to club women that the state federation had hoped for. Until further notice please send information of news value to Mrs. George Elliott McCormick, Marion, Ohio, director of press Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs.

Milady's Boudoir

The Practical Girl.
You may be practical about everything that pertains to your daily work and still use poor judgment when it comes to arranging your daily home or social life. If you have this shortcoming it may not mar your career as a business woman, but it will certainly tell on your health and your nerves in time.

By being practical I mean that you should get up in time to dress leisurely and not tumble into your clothes, or catch up a bit of food to eat on the run. You are not practical if you calculate your time so poorly that you are compelled to run all the way to your car so that you will get to your work in time. Instead you should take plenty of time to dress, plenty of time to eat, and plenty of time to reach your place of business without hurrying.

This type of girl is an extravagant with money as she is with the expenditure of her leisure hours. To use a slang phrase, "money burns a hole in her pocket." She is apt to let it go in dribbles and when the time comes that she really needs something or she sees something worth the buying, she has nothing set aside to buy it with.

The wise girl who works will lay aside a certain sum each week or month, as she thinks best, and having decided to do this will stick to her decision. To be honest and fair with others you should be so with yourself. This means to take account of your time and money and learn to apportion both. It may seem an effort just at first, but by exerting yourself a little you will find that you will save yourself much useless worry and have plenty of time and money for both yourself and those dependent on you.

Every Day Etiquette
"Should a bridegroom remain at his bride's side during the entire evening of a wedding reception, or is he permitted by etiquette to move about among the guests?" asked Wilfred.

He should receive with the bride for the first half hour or so. After that he is permitted to mingle with the guests, paying them such courtesies as the occasion requires. When the bride leaves the room she should do so on the arm of the groom," said his father.

It seems to me that the next two Sunday School lessons contain the two most important truths taught by Christianity.

The lesson tomorrow, "The Future Life." What is it to be a life of happiness or a life of regret and punishment?

The following Sunday the lesson will be, "The Holy Scriptures." What are they? Where do they come from, and what do they teach? Where do we get the best things we have in civil life, except from them?

Come to our Bible Class at the Second Presbyterian church and help us in the study of these two most important lessons.

Howe's Pictures.

The eruption of the volcano and the fire scene in "A Night in Honolulu," which comes to the Auditorium next Saturday, Sept. 20, is one of the most spectacular efforts of the producer for the stage in many years. This is the reproduction of the active volcano of Kilauea, which is located at the side of Mauna Loa, elevated about 4,000 feet, the summit of which is crowned by the magnificent crater called Moku-we-we. At intervals for many years the lava has rolled down with tremendous bursts on one side or the other, to the sea coast. The eruptions of Kilauea form great fountains, spouting immense sheets of flame and smoke. The light being plainly visible from the sea for a hundred miles or so. In the year of 1859 such a display occurred burning with terrific fury, throwing up its crimson lava, and while hot rocks and destroying masses of valuable property. This crater, in the legends was supposed to be the home of the goddess of the volcanoes, and when these eruptions occurred the natives feared the great wrath of this deity. In fact no one ventured within its shadow without an offering to appease the anger of this willful goddess. Young women were sometimes thrown into the crater that their friends might be looked upon favorably by Pele and her family. Numerous and interesting are the stories that may be told. One of the greatest acts of courage ever performed to break the Hawaiian superstition was that of a woman who in her youth had been an impenetrable heathen and a dissolute character. She was known as Kapiohina, who afterwards became a model of virtue. Up to the time of her act it was considered certain death to ascend Kilauea and pluck the ohia berries held sacred for Pele. This woman, however, wanted the superstitious natives to worship the true god and before the debutant John Philip Sousa has compiled programs of much musical interest, each program affording opportunity for individual effort by the musicians and soloists. Preference will be given during the week to compositions of Lieutenant Sousa himself, responsive to many requests by patrons of Willow Grove.

The final "All Sousa Music" concert will be given on Thursday in the preparation of the four programs for the concert the March King has included Sousa himself, responsive to many requests as the most striking, most effective and most "Sousesque" of his musical writings. They are not to be considered "preferential programs," for each is evenly divided as to marches, suites, descriptive sketches and the "unusual" things which Sousa has composed, and notable in this last designation is his "Showing Off Before Company," practically new to Philadelphia.

Margery Moody, soprano, Betty Gray, contralto, and Florence Johnson, violinist, as well as Frank Simon, Louis P. Fritz, H. Benne Henton and Joseph Green, are to be heard this week. Philadelphia Record.

Sousa comes to Newark, Sept. 23 for an afternoon concert.

"One Week of Life."

Pauline Frederick's second Goldwyn Picture is "One Week of Life," is being seen at the Alhambra tonight.

Again Samuel Goldwyn keeps his promise made to the exhibitors of America when Pauline Frederick became the newest star in his constellation by presenting her in what is distinctly an emotional drama of modern life. Not only is the star provided with a splendid story, which gives her the opportunity to dominate one powerful situation after another, but she is enabled to appear in a succession of costumes more gorgeous than she has ever worn on the screen.

As if that were not enough for the public the scenario is cleverly arranged to present her in two distinct roles. By itself each would be a brilliant one; together they afford Miss Frederick sweeping scope for her emotions. Yet the interest of the play does not depend on any trick of double exposure. Each heroine lives apart. They do not even meet.

Written by Cosmo Hamilton, famous playwright and novelist, arranged for the screen by Willard Mack, directed by Willard Mack, and with a cast including the leading man who aided Miss Frederick to achieve fame in "The Eternal City"—Thomas Holding—together with Sydney Ainsworth and Corinne Barker, Goldwyn offers "One

The startling events that follow thrilled hundreds yesterday and they will with the daring and novelty of plot, as will Miss Frederick's inimitable emotional artistry.

new struck people she made the journey from whence no other had ever returned. About a hundred natives inspired by her bravery, followed her to the Black Ledge and watched her descending over five hundred feet, and there in full view she hurled her defiance at Pele, throwing stones into the burning lake. Kapiohina mocked the goddess as she ate the berries consecrated to the deity. Turning to the natives she cried: "My God is Jehovah. He who has kindled these fires. I call you to witness that if I perish by the anger of Pele then she is your goddess, and you may live in fear of her, but if my God preserves me while mocking her sabots, then you must see him." Week of Life" with pride. This feature is shown tonight for the last times.

"Cheating Herself."

Peggy Hyland, the vivacious Fox star, will be seen at the Alhambra theatre in her latest picture, "Cheating Herself" on Monday and Tuesday of next week. This is the story of a madcap and was written for the star by Charles Mortimer Dick and produced under the direction of Edmund Lawrence. "Cheating Herself" is said to be even better than "Miss Adventure" in the possibilities it offers the star.

It provides her with the role of Patience Hilton, a young woman who is the exponent of the simple life. She despises the devilizing pastimes of the idle rich and is convinced that if her family can be persuaded that they are poor and forced to work for a living they will be far more content and happy. So Patience arranges with her father's secretary, one Magnus MacDonald, to join her in a fake theft of the family fortune and thus reduce them all to poverty. As the girl and the secretary are blowing the safe, after a lesson in burglary by a reformed crook, two men in police uniform spring into the room, seize and bind the pair and walk off with the fortune.

The role of Patience fits Miss Hyland admirably well. Her romance, her adventures are all interesting to the extreme, so cleverly have they been handled by author and director. The picture is rich in humorous highlights. The star receives competent support. A comedy is also promised.

"Sundown Trail."

The Alhambra Sunday will have the six reel special attraction "Sundown Trail" with Monroe Salisbury, Clyde Fillmore, Alice Elliott, Beatrice Dominguez, Carl Stockdale and other Universal stars and actresses in the cast. The Sundown Trail is a wonderful picture, the story telling of Spanish

A delegation of miners wanted to send back East for a cargo of women who were to be married to the men who lifted them from the stage. Carter refused to go. When the cargo arrived, there was among them a beautiful girl in widow's weeds. She was selected by Velver Paddy, a Mississippi River gambler and a new-comer to the camp. She fled from him and Carter stepped out of a thicket and tossed him into a river. Billy had stolen her baby from Virginia and was holding it for ransom. A high fever, born of fatigue and anxiety, disturbs her mind and leaves her without memory. In the meantime a fanatical preacher has aroused the miners, now married men, against the Mexican girls in the dancehall. One of the girls takes refuge in the cabin where the widow is sleeping in the delirium of fever, the Mexican girl puts on the mourning dress of the
